A CONDUCTOR'S TRIALS.
How He is Forced to Act Toward Drunken Roughs.

Last night, about 9 o'clock, a drunken negro named Frederick Jones clambered onto a Seventh street car as it was coming up toward the Mall.

He stood in the doorway and refused to move when the conductor told him to. Then the conductor, Bernard Robey, threw him from the car, and with an oath, the negro picked up a brick and started for the car.

He was unable to catch it until the Avenue was reached, and, when the car stopped there, he ran up to the conductor and was struck on the head with the iron brakehandle, and the conductor only hurried.

He staggered back and then renewed the charge with his brick and was stunned by a second blow from the conductor's brakehandle.

The negro was taken to the Emergency Hospital by Officer Kaucher, where it was found that his skull had been fractured, though the wound is not likely to prove fatal.

In the Police Court this morning the case against Conductor Robey was continued, the conductor being held in $500 bonds.

THE COLLECTOR'S PREDICAMENT.
He Has Three Dollars and is Ignorant of His Owner.

Collector Davis has $3 that was forced upon him a few days ago by an old lady who was in such a hurry that she did not stop long enough to leave her name. "I am not going to pay for the barber shop," said she, "my part of it is $3 and he can pay for the rest," was about all that could be understood by the cashier of her harangue.

It seems that she rents out a portion of her house for a barber shop and the water rent bill for the whole house was presented to her, and she thought by forcing the $3, which she claimed was her share of the tax, upon the collector, she would save herself from any liability for water.

The "Zoo" New Attraction.
Three elk, the property of "Buffalo Bill," have been added to the "Zoo" connected with the National Museum, and will remain until next spring. The elk are being the circus carnivals special. They are from Wyoming.

Prof. Hornaday says that, like the buffalo, the elk is fast disappearing, although laws have been passed against their destruction.

Col. Cody wanted to place his herd of buffaloes also in the keeping of the "Zoo" until the spring, but his kind offer had to be declined for the want of accommodations.

The Brown-Carroll Matter.
The special committee of the School Board appointed to investigate the Brown-Carroll controversy, have completed their labor and will present their report to the School Board to-night. The investigation was begun about two months ago. The trouble originated by Mr. Brown making charges against the efficiency of Mr. Carroll and a counter charge by Mr. Carroll against Mr. Brown.

The Potomac Flats Case.
The case of the United States vs. Martin F. Morris, familiarly known as the Potomac Flats case, was up in the Court in General Term to-day on the application of Charles Marshall and others to file two amended and supplementary answers. The defendants are the claimants to a title to the Potomac River under the title of Lord Fairfax and his last proprietary of Maryland.

Williams, of Christ Church, in behalf of the congregation, presented them with a handsome wicker warmer, worked with silver cord, containing twenty-five new 1888 silver coins of each denomination.

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Annual Report on Its Condition by Major Moore.

Maj. William G. Moore of the Police Department, in his annual report to the Commissioners, makes some important and timely recommendations. The omission of estimates for an increase of force is explained by a statement of the legislation now before Congress. This bill provides for an increase of eight sergeants and sixty privates, and has passed the House. In discussing the present inadequate number of men, the major says there is a population of 318,000 people scattered over seventy-three square miles of territory and there are only 11,000 men on duty between midnight and sunrise.

He recommends the remodeling of the Third and Fifth precinct station houses. He also recommends that the patrol system be extended to the Fifth, Seventh and Eighth precincts, and another ambulance is asked.

The efficiency of the force is commended, and the records of the past year evidence increased efficiency and improved discipline on the part of officers and men. The strength of the force was 11,000. The time lost by members of the force on account of sickness and other causes was 5,638 days, as against 6,000 days during the year previous.

The number of trials for violation of the rules was 90, less than during the previous twelve months; while in 1,451 instances men were detained in the Police Court after 11 o'clock a. m. who should either have been on duty or taken needed rest.

The following table shows the number of cases of arrest in each precinct, presents a total of 20,300, of which 9,968 were colored:

Precinct.	Male.	Female.	Total.
First	4,472	687	5,159
Second	3,743	377	4,120
Third	1,096	324	1,420
Fourth	3,515	813	4,328
Fifth	1,351	184	1,535
Sixth	2,440	429	2,869
Seventh	975	177	1,152
Eighth	1,005	138	1,143
Detectives	429	56	485
Totals	17,221	3,079	20,300

The following statistics show the character of the offenses for which the arrests were made:

Offenses.	Reported.	Apprehended.	White.	Colored.	Mixed.
Housebreaking—Night	55	34	28	15	17
Grand larceny—Day	307	198	127	87	84
Petit larceny—Day	1,362	960	508	451	261
Larceny from person	70	40	22	18	4
Highway robbery	12	14	8	4	13
False pretenses	21	22	17	5	2
Forgery	24	35	25	10	27
Totals	2,041	1,432	803	602	127

Of the 2,041 criminal cases reported, 1,432 arrests were made, sixty-five per cent. of which were colored and forty per cent. white. These were colored persons. Servants form a considerable proportion of the arrested, there being arrested cooks, fifty-seven; coachmen, thirty; porters, thirty; servants, 1,276; a total of 1,377, or seven per cent. of the entire year's cases. There were 133 persons arrested for carrying concealed weapons, fifty-five white and seventy-eight colored.

Chief Clerk Richard Sylvester, in reporting on the return of weapons taken from prisoners says that "during the year past the return of weapons taken from persons carrying them concealed has largely increased, and as no provision is made for the confiscation of this class of goods, the Police Department has the least interest of the Department and the community to withhold the return of firearms to the vicious class from whom they were taken despite their protestations."

He recommends that the law be changed so that such weapons may be confiscated.

THE SPEED OF TRAINS.
Judge Miller States How to Make Cases Against Engineers.

Officer Rattler had Engineer James Bentley in the Police Court this morning for running the train over the B. & O. Road inside the city limits faster than twelve miles an hour.

He filed the train from Sixth street northeast to Fifteenth, ninety-three yards, and it took only six seconds to make the distance, at the rate of about twenty-nine miles an hour. The engineer and Conductor (Griffith) said that they came from Hyattsville to the boundary in six minutes and from the boundary to Fifteenth in five minutes, which would be about twenty miles an hour.

Judge Miller said that as the policeman's testimony was uncorroborated he could not dismiss the case. He recommended that to make future cases of this kind the policeman should measure off a certain distance and stand at one end himself and have some one at the other, and each time the train passes compare time.

She Got Him Out.
When Alexander Brown, a very scared, very black twelve-year-old boy came up into the dock of the Police Court this morning he saw his mother in the crowd, and piped out, "Ma, come an' get me out."

"Ma" came around and testified that Alexander was a trifle wrong in his head, a kleptomaniac, only that he was too long for Mrs. Brown, and that accounted for his taking some iron off from the Police Court yesterday. Alexander was badly scared, and Judge Miller let him off for a $1 fine.

These tickets will be good going only on the train which leaves Washington at 6:00 a. m. and Alexandria at 6:10 a. m., November 1, and will be good to return on any regular train and include the fare for the trip. AMUSEMENTS.

Albough's—"The Showaway."

"The Showaway," as presented at Albough's Opera House this week, is one of those regular English melodramas which always finds an audience that appreciates the dramatic situations presented in the troubles and struggles of the virtuous and innocent with the villain and villainy of the play. A large audience filled the house last night, and the enthusiastic flappers of the flash melodrama gave splendid evidence of their appreciation of the opportune appearance of Dicky Dime, the showaway, and Chucky, Marion Elmore, the newboy, in time to foil the villains.

The feature of the play is the "cracking" of a safe by two genuine masked safe-robbers who do their work in a crack-moment and through manner in full view of the audience. The yacht attack and other scenic effects were good. All the members of the cast did their work in a satisfactory manner and the review, were as a rule, well taken. "The Showaway" will be on the boards every night this week and Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

The National—Margaret Mather.
Margaret Mather appeared at the National Theatre last night. The play was "Romance and Juliet" and Miss Mather was Juliet. There are only a very few Juliets extant. Miss Mather is easily among the best. She is pretty; she is young; she is enthusiastic, over much, possibly she has power. Her work was not perfect, but she was good. Her work where she could turn a number of comedy on the stage. Miss Mather is too pretty and bright to be in tragedy. See her in the Houseman for instance. The Romeo of Mr. Hager was strong and tender, and capable of improvement. Mr. Stuller's Mercutio was a handsome lady captain. Mary Ferrell was a purely old nurse. Frank McDonald's Paris was better than better looking. Old man Capulet (Mr. Padgett) was a good foil to his pretty daughter. The other parts were done well, that is well enough. Tonight "Leah."

Kernan's—Reilly and Woods.
The new show and established merit of the Reilly & Woods variety combination brought a full house to Kernan's last night, and it is but justice to say that a better vaudeville entertainment has not been offered in Washington this season. The people are among the best in the specialty line, and their efforts merited the applause they received. The songs, dances and grotesque eccentric acts are novel and pleasing. The daring evolutions of the Vaidas Trio, the comedy of the wailing troupe, forming an exceptionally interesting feature of the entertainment.

Harris' Bijou—"Zitka."
Carlton's Russian melodrama, "Zitka," was produced for the first time in Washington last evening to an audience which crowded every part of the Bijou, and if repeated calls and continued applause be accepted as a criterion, "Zitka" is a most successful play. It is familiar, having been dramatized from Henri Greville's "Cabaret Rouge." With a plot unusually exciting, a company that Mr. Miner has spared no money nor pains to collect, and elegant stage settings, "Zitka" as given last night may be classed among the notable productions of the season. As the heroines carried off the honors of the play, and was rewarded by several calls before the curtain. The other members of the cast were equally well. The play was a success, and taken as a whole, the company may be summed up as an organization far above the average. Again to-night.

Good Whisky in Flanes.
The Shoomaker Company's storehouse in the rear of Nos. 1331 and 1333 E street northwest, suffered by fire last evening, it is thought to the extent of $10,000. The building is three stories high and contained wines and liquors to the value of $50,000. It is owned by A. K. Becker and is fully insured. Notwithstanding the close proximity to the Harris House and the National Theatre, there was no panic. Mr. Harris, proprietor of the Harris House, loaned the firemen an inviting supper after the fire.

A Dog With Many Lives.
The pitiful howl of a large dog of unknown breed, impaled on the end of a sharp iron picket of a fence in front of house 1221 Massachusetts avenue last evening, attracted a large crowd. The dog attempted to jump the fence, but failed to clear it and was caught as described. A policeman was called by a neighbor and a policeman was called to shoot the animal. After the officer fired the dog ran away and disappeared in the darkness.
